FATALLY HURT.

Crittenden County Boy Fatally Crushed Between the Cars.

Paducah News-Democrat. Malcolm Greenlea, a conductor for the Paducah Traction company, died at Riverside hospital Saturday afternoon at 4:45 o'clock as the result of injuries sustained in a street car collision on Broadway Saturday evening.

Greenlea had gotten off his car, at South Sixth, at the end of the line, at First and Broadway, and was standing between his car and the Broadway car, which had gone down just before it, reversing the trolley. The Trimble street car, which was following his car, bumped into it and Greenlea's right leg was caught between the bumpers of his own car and the Broadway car. The limb was badly mangled.

Greenlea was carried to the Riverside hospital and the doctors had immedately performing an operation, amputating the limb, but it was found that he was too ill to stand it and he died from the shock of the wound.

He was 26 years of age, and had lived in Paducah for some time. He had been in the employ of the street railroad company for quite a while.

He was unmarried but leaves a mother, Mrs. Laura Ballston, of Caldwell Springs, two brothers and two sisters. His brothers are Clarence and Leslie Greenlea, of this city, his sisters are Mrs. Lula Overby of Mayfield, and Mrs. Laura Ballston of Dyersburg.

Mrs. Laura Ballston is a sister of J. P. Pierce, of this city, and the young man killed was his nephew, and a first cousin of Mrs. W. B. Yandell, Mrs. G. M. Crider and Messrs C. J. and Ira Pierce.

Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Frankfort, Ky., Nov. 17.—Governor Beckham this morning issued the following Thanksgiving proclamation: "Commonwealth of Kentucky, Executive Department, Frankfort, Ky., Thanksgiving Proclamation, 1905.—In accordance with custom, and following the proclamation of the President of the United States, I appoint Thursday, November thirtieth, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer throughout the Commonwealth of Kentucky.

"I request that all business be suspended on that day, and that all our people, with due observance of this beautiful and hallowed custom, give thanks and honor to the Gracious and merciful God who has so richly blessed us as a nation and as a people. Let us give thanks unto Him not only for the usual religious ceremonies, but especially with deeds of kindness and generosity, to the poor and needy among us, more expressive of our gratitude and more pleasing to Him than all else we can do.

"In the plenitude of our country's growth and prosperity, in the marvelous progress it has made under Christian civilization, let us remember that the Divine Teacher has told us in the King of the virtues 'the greatest is charity.'

"In testimony whereof I have caused to be set my hand and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed.

Done at Frankfort this seventh day of November, 1905.

More New Territory.

New York, Nov. 17.—A cable dispatch to the N. Y. Herald from Havana says

Residents of the Isle of Pines have issued a declaration of their independence from Cuba, and organized a new government as a United States Territory. A delegate to Congress will be sent to Washington in order to have questions affecting the future of the Island discussed before the House of Representatives, ignoring Cuban authority.

Mass meetings were held under the name of Territorial Conventions and officials were appointed to fill all positions except those that must be named by the President under the constitution of the United States. The first officers of the new territory are:

T. B. Anderson, Secretary of State; James M. Steers, Treasurer; Ed. C. Ryan, Delegate to Congress; A. T. Friese, Chief Justice; David B. Wall Sheriff.

The convention divided the island into five districts and ordered elections to be held Tuesday to select members of the Legislature, which is to convene next week. Tax Collectors and Assessors. One ticket was named in each district, the only political question being to keep the island under the stars and stripes. The election is proceeding in an orderly manner, under the forms of law, the men on the different tickets announcing that they will take office immediately without regard to those serving under the Cuban government.

Steven's Comedy Company.

The Steven's Comedy Company is undoubtedly the best that has been in Marion for many moons. Their productions Monday and Tuesday nights were well rendered and shows that much credit is due "Jolly Harry Stevens" in his selection of such a company.

The specialties were new, witty, brilliant and up-to-date in every respect. Their costumes are elegant and of the latest patterns and their plays are well worth the price of admission and this is proven by the interest shown by the large audiences each night.

To-night the "Signal of Liberty" will be played. This is a story of the Spanish-American war and no one can afford to miss this number. Friday night "On the Stroke of Ten" and Saturday night their engagement closes with that beautiful English play "Thelma." The actors and actresses are gentlemen and ladies in every way and we can cheerfully recommend them to the play-going public as ones who produce the "goods" on the stage.

A Horrible Death.

Somerset, Ky., Nov. 17.—G. F. Sherk, chief engineer of the Somerset electric light plant, met a horrible death Wednesday night while on duty at the plant. He was attempting to start the engine by using a long piece of pipe between the spokes of the large drive wheel, when the opposing end of the spokes became entangled in the spokes of the large wheel on the engine opposite, which was running at full speed. The iron pipe was hurled with tremendous velocity, striking Sherk on top of the head and crushing it into a jelly, his brains spattering the whole of the engine room. He had just recovered from a spell of fever, and had only been in charge of the plant for a few days.

MRS. WALKER, } Com.

MISS HARRIS,

MARRIAGES

Wednesday evening, at 8:30 o'clock, at the home of the bride, Mr. Frank Cash and Miss Bessie Castleberry were happily united in marriage, by Rev. M. E. Chappel, pastor of the C. P. Church.

It was a quiet home wedding, only members of the family and a few intimate friends being present. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left for Hopkinsville, returning to Princeton yesterday evening and are now "at home" to their friends.

The bride is the second daughter of Mrs. Fannie Castleberry and is one of Princeton's prettiest and most popular young ladies and greatly admired by all of her acquaintances for her sweet and amiable disposition.—Princeton Leader.

Yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock Rev. M. E. Miller, of the Baptist church said the words that made Mr. Clifton King, of Memphis, and Miss Lena Conyer, of Kelsey, man and wife. The marriage was solemnized in the parlor of the Kelsey Hotel in the presence of a large number of friends of the contracting parties. The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. Q. M. Conyer, the genial proprietor of the Kelsey hotel and is a charming and attractive young lady, while the groom is a leading contractor of Memphis, also a model young man. After their marriage the young couple and invited guests were given an elegant reception at the Kelsey Hotel.—Princeton Leader.

The announcement has been made of the approaching marriage of Miss Myrtle Parish, the handsome daughter of G. W. Parish of the Frances vicinity, to Mr. Elzie Wicker, son of the late A. B. Wicker of the same vicinity. The wedding will take place next Monday the 27th at the home of the bride's parents on the Dyersburg road.

Ollie Turley, who lives two miles this side of Livingston tank, was very badly hurt Wednesday morning from falling off of a fifty foot trestle, on the Illinois Central. The train being almost upon him he attempted to swing down but lost his balance and fell. The result was that an arm was broken and his body badly bruised, though no internal injuries are reported. He received proper medical attention in this city and was sent to his home.

EDUCATIONAL.

"It is not the will of your Father, which art in Heaven, that one of these little ones should perish. I came that ye might have life and have it more abundantly."—Jesus.

"There is a glory greater than the glory of wealth and power and arms and conquest; the glory of loving, getting, cherishing, diffusing and perpetuating knowledge, whereby men may adorn their lot in this life whatever that lot may be; and whereby, as far as knowledge can, they may be led to know a better life to come."—Jobert J. Breckinridge in 1853.

"The public schools are the Colleges of the people; they are the nurseries of freedom; their establishment and efficiency are the paramount duty of a republic. The education of the children is the most legitimate object of taxation."—Dr. J. L. M. Curry.

"The power of the State, the interests of civilization, and the perpetuity of our institutions alike call upon the Legislature to devise a system which will meet the wants of the rising generation."—State Supt. R. F. Dillard, in 1847.

In order to preserve our civilization, its history and its traditions, must we not make the schools of all the people efficient. But the schools will be no better, unless we begin their reformation with the teacher. The teacher is the real center of an education. Among the educational problems, therefore, which must be solved before our schools become efficient, the teacher problem is perhaps the most vital. He must be trained to teach and he must be paid for the services not starved and ostracized.

Henry Bernard, in a speech before the Legislature in 1830 said:

"It is idle to expect good schools until we have good teachers, and the people will rest satisfied with such teachers as they have, until their attention is directed to the subject and until they can demonstrate the necessity of employing better teachers, and show they can be made better by proper training in classics or Seminary established for the specific purpose."

"There is but one way practicable to attain the end of popular education, and that is the education of teachers adapted to the wants of our schools. This reform is fundamental to every other in the cause of education. For want of it all the endowments of the state, and all the endowments of benevolence in behalf of education, however extensive, will languish and fail; for it is only at last through good teachers that good teaching could be had, and without good teaching no system of education is effectual."—From Edward Joynes, William and Mary College.

In an article in the Southern School Journal for November, 1905, Judge W. M. Beckner, of Winchester, said:

"In the new education, which we may fairly call American, the chief factor is the teacher. Text books are very well but they are of secondary consideration. Does anybody know or care what books, if any, were used by Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Comenius, Pestalozzi, Froebel or Parker? Their pupils were sheep, whom the shepherds not only fed, but led into green pastures where they could feed themselves. The old system of memorization is passing away with the rod by which it was stimulated. Under the new methods initiation and not imitation is the keynote. The old way was easier because it was mechanical. Its results were much like the music of the organ grinder. The instrument on which the modern teacher must know how to play is the harp of a thousand strings found in the nature of every child committed to his care. How can he successfully do this without an adequate training and where can this be had save in a properly arranged and equipped Normal school."

LETTER FROM COLORADO.

The following letter from Hon. R. C. Walker, founder of the Crittenden Press, which was received lately by his old friend, Harrison Bigham, will be read with peculiar interest by the hundreds of Mr. Walker's friends in this part of the State:

GRAND JUNCTION, COL., Nov. 16, 1905.—Mr. W. H. Bigham, Marion, Ky. Dear Old Friend I received your letter some days ago and was glad to hear from you and to know that you had not forgotten your old Democratic friend. A letter from you always puts me in good humor, and brings a glow of pleasure and happiness that won't rub off for many, many days. Such letters always call to mind the good old fall days we used to have about the first of November, when the Press drawing came off, and the fall pork began to taste good, possums got ripe and the sorghum got thick, and the turkeys began to remind you of Thanksgiving. Ah, those were the days to remember and the incidents and atmosphere of those times are as fresh in my memory and as sweet to my being as if it were but yesterday. That was the summer time of my life and it is joyful to live it over again in the mind.

How you and Lucian Miles, a n d Gordon Hammond used to get up and hustle for that gun, and how I wished that I had a gun for each one of you, and Lefe Cruee, too. If ever I get to be a millionaire and the head of some big insurance company, I will yet give each one of you a big stock ranch in Colorado; but will I ever be a millionaire? I confess that the outlook is not very bright for that, and I fear that we will be gray with many winters before I can do that; but we can all be happy as we go along the way, and if we can't get together here mayhap we can meet hereafter, and talk over what a good time we had in this old world, for to tell you the truth, as I see it, we all do have a pretty good time, notwithstanding we worry and fret, and think we have a hard time.

I see from the Press that you folks are having a warm election, and how often I have worried because I have not been there to lend my help, little as it is, to Press, Tom, Dave, Joe, Fred Casner, Uncle Havy Bryan, Wickar and all the boys.

You have a fine ticket, every man of them is made out of the right stuff and I would like to see them doing business in the court house because they are worthy and there are none better. The boys are making a great fight and I do hope that the ballots will go in for them tomorrow. I feel like a fellow, I imagine, fastened up in a graveyard, while my friends, those I have broken bread with and love as my own kith and kin, are making the fight of their lives and I can do nothing but look on. How I have longed to be with you and to take a hand in the "shindy." But perhaps it is best as it is; at any rate it can't be helped.

Living out here is a good deal higher than it is back there in old Crittenden, and a man has to hustle if he makes it. My boys are at work and they help the old man along wonderfully, and if it were not for them I do not know how I would come out. Emil Elder stopped to see us the other day, and we were all mighty glad to see him; he is as big as young Bob Dowell, and one of the finest young fellows I ever saw, we enjoyed his visit very much.

My health is fine and my family are all in fairly good health. This is a fine climate; no long, cold, damp spells. It is dry pretty much all the time. I was up in the mountains a few days ago and saw some four deer but my old gun would not shoot as I wanted it to and the result was that we are still hungry for meat; wish I had one of those big, fat hogs you used to sell me for winter, the taste of the gravy and spare ribs is in my mouth yet, but all of the good, muscle-making meat is gone.

Jack Crider sailed in on us the other day, and surprised me so that I did not know him for a whole minute. He is here yet and seems to like the valley pretty well. It warms the cockles of my heart to see any of the boys from old Crittenden.

I hope to get back to see you next year, but can not tell yet, and when I come I shall expect you to kill a

How Is Your Heart?

Is your pulse weak, too slow, too fast, or does it skip a beat? Do you have shortness of breath, weak or hungry spells, fainting, smothering or choking spells, palpitation, fluttering, pains around the heart, in side and shoulder; or hurt when lying on left side?

If you have any of these symptoms your heart is weak or diseased, and cannot get better without assistance. Dr. Miles' Heart Cure strengthens weak hearts, and rarely ever fails to cure heart disease. Try it, and see how quickly you will find relief.

"About January 1st, 1902, I took down with weakness and drowsy, and gradually grew worse. I was told by my family physician that my case was hopeless. My neighbors and family had given me up. My limbs and body were swollen to one-third larger than normal size, and water had collected around my heart. For at least three months I had to sit propped up in bed to keep from smothering. I sent for five bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, and by the time I had taken them all I was entirely cured. I feel better than I have for twenty years, and I am able to do any kind of work on my farm. My attending physician told me that if it hadn't been for Dr. Miles' Heart Cure I would now be in my grave."

chicken and churn, and dig a mess of new potatoes from the garden, and we won't go home until morning.

Do you ever see Pat (Henry) Woods now. I guess he has gotten to be a fat, sedate, solemn old man by this time, and would not enjoy being told about the time Uncle Baz Butler larruped him with a rope because he was disposed to mock the old gentleman. How is our old friends Burrell Walker, Spill Hill, Tom Hill Horace Williamson, John Parr, Watson Rice, Billy Adams and his boys Cal, Frank, Alley and Will, Charlie Clement and a hundred others in your neighborhood, whose names are as familiar to me as my own household. Frank Cruee, poor fellow, has crossed over. Peace to his ashes and green be the memory of his name in hearts and minds of his friends. He was a little rough outside, but he had a warm heart and good, generous impulses within. I loved Frank.

I always read the Chapel Hill items in the Press, and enjoy them. May the good old neighborhood go on living and growing and prospering forever.

Well, I guess you are getting tired of me by this time, so I will close, hoping to hear from you as often as you have the time and the inclination to remember.

Your old friend,
R. C. WALKER.

Big Judgment.

Washington, Nov. 16.—The United States Court of Claims to-day rendered a decision in the case of the Harvey Steel company against the United States, in which the company is given a judgment on a contract entered into in 1900 of $650,000 as royalty for permitting its patent processes in the manufacture of Harvey-ized steel armor plate to be used in the construction of war vessels by Government contractors.

In May, 1903, the same company obtained a judgment in the court of Claims against the Government for $65,800 as royalty then due, and an appeal was taken to the Supreme Court of the United States, which affirmed the judgment of the court of Claims, fixing the liability of the Government.

The two cases involved the same state of facts, the judgment rendered today being for the royalty which has accrued since May, 1903. In its decision the court of Claims closely followed that of the Supreme Court of the United States in the former case.

HELPS TO STUDY.

Our lesson to-day is the growth and ministry of John the Baptist. Luke gives us some important facts in chronology. He gives us the civil and ecclesiastical rulers at that time. Tiberius was associated with Augustus as emperor in A. D. 11. This would make the ministry of John the Baptist begin in 25. Pontius Pilate was made procurator in 25, and was thus the ruler in Palestine when John began to preach. Palestine contained two tetrarchies, that of Herod Antipas and Philip. Syria contained 17. Herod Antipas ruled over the territory in which Jesus grew up. He reigned 43 years, and was then banished to Lyons on the charge of preparing for a revolt. Although Luke mentions Annas and Caiaphas both, there could be but one acting high priest at a time. Caiaphas was the acting high priest, but as Annas had been deposed by the Roman authorities, the Jews deferred to him as high priest.

PLACE.—The rough, mountainous, and uninhabited or sparsely settled region lying west and north-west of the Dead Sea (Judg. 1:16).

The Gospel is simply the facts about Jesus coming to redeem the world and to save the people from their sins, and this is "good news." In Luke the "good news" began with the announcement to Zacharias, but in Mark the Gospel begins with the preaching of John the Baptist.

This principal theme was repentance, which was preparatory to Christ's Kingdom. Christ points out in concrete examples adapted to the several classes of people, how the repentance which he demanded would express itself. These are examples of the "fruits worthy of repentance." Here we have the religious teaching that none can avoid the certain punishment of sin except by announcing it in every form.

The portion of Herod's Kingdom assigned to Archelaus was Judea, Samaria and Idumea. He was styled the ethnarch, while Herod Antipas and Philip were styled tetrarchs. Archelaus was sent to Rome for his schooling, but received only a meager education.

He was arrogant, unjust, and sensual in his nature. His reign was characterized by oppression, arbitrariness and tyranny. Like his father he installed or deposed high priests at his pleasure or caprice. Every year of his rule was full of injustice or abuse. At last all joined in one general complaint against him to the emperor, who summoned him to Rome in his tenth year of office, to answer for his misdeeds. The result was that he was banished to Vienna in Gaul, (A. D. 6) his property was confiscated, and his territory made a Roman province.

Nazareth is situated a little south of the southern end of the Sea of Galilee about seventeen miles to the west of it. At the foot of a low range of mountains crossing Palestine, in a saucer-like basin, is Nazareth. To the south is the great plain of Esdraelon. Here more than one of Israel's great battles were fought. East of it lies Mt. Gilboa where Saul was slain, and Little Hermon, on whose slopes nestles Nain, the home of the widow whose son Jesus raised to life. The town contains about 7000 inhabitants. On the great hill that rises behind it Jesus may often have watched the ships on the Mediterranean, less than twenty miles away, and the caravans as they went along the great road a little to the east of the town, or on their way across the plain of Esdraelon on their way to Egypt. Nazareth itself was not on any of the great trade routes, but secluded in a little valley to itself.

The fertility of Palestine was remarkable. It was a "garden of God," and like a cornucopia of the most manifold productions (Mt. 13:23). In several places in the Old Testament it is a "good land, flowing with milk and honey," and a "large fat land" (Ex. 3:8, 13:5; Neh. 9:25, 35). It is also described by Josephus and others as having been very productive in the time of Jesus. It supported four or five million inhabitants, six times as many as the same area in Illinois. Galilee alone had 200 cities of about 20,000 each. But its blessings were dependent upon attention, care, industry and the blessings of God.

TOPICS FOR STUDY.

- I. John the Baptist's character.
  1. Personal.
    - (a.) Elements of strength, (Lk. 1:80, 3:16, 29, Mt. 3:7, 14, 14:4; Jno. 4:27-30.)
    - (b.) Elements of weakness, (Mk. 2:18, Mt. 11:3.)
  2. Prophetic.
    - (a.) In his outward life, (Mk. 1:4, 6, Lk. 1:15, 80, 2 Kgs. 1:8.)
    - (b.) In the prediction, Lk. 1:76.
    - (c.) In his preaching.
    - (d.) In the symbolic baptism, (Zech. 13:1; Ezek. 36:25.)
- II. John's ministry.
  1. Place. 2. Appearance and mode of life. 3. His message.
- III. Repentance.

SEARCH QUESTIONS.

What do Matt. and Lk. add in common to Mark's account? 2. What does Luke add that is not found in the others? 3. What was the influence of John's home life upon his character? (Lk. 1:13-17; 42-44, 60-67, 80.) 4. What was John's estimate of Christ's humanity? (Jno. 1:30.) 5. What was Christ's estimate of John? (Lk. 7:24-25.) 6. What relation was John to Jesus? (Lk. 1:36.) 7. What was John's estimate of Christ's dignity and mission? (Jno. 1:29, 34; 3:31, 34.) 8. What help did John's work give to Jesus in his ministry? 9. What help in preparing disciples? (Jno. 1:25-37.)

LIVING THE LESSON.

Am I willing to live a plain, simple life, like John the Baptist did, for Christ's sake? Am I willing to tell men plainly of their sin and to warn them of their danger as John did?

In Time of Peace.

In the first months of the Russo-Japan war we had a striking example of the necessity for preparation and the early advantage of those, so to speak, "have shingled their roofs in dry weather." The virtue of preparation has made history and given to us our greatest men. The individual as well as the nation should be prepared for any emergency. Are you prepared to successfully combat the first cold you take? A cold can be cured much more quickly when treated as soon as it has been contracted and before it has become settled in the system. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is famous for its cures of colds and it should be kept at hand ready for instant use. For sale by Woods & Orme, leading druggists in Western Kentucky.

With a Broken Neck.

Philadelphia, Nov. 18.—With the death of George Handforth, twenty-eight years of age, at the Methodist hospital today, ended what is said to be one of the most remarkable cases of survival of a broken neck known in the annals of medicine and surgery.

For fifteen months the injured man lay on air and water mattresses, suffering no pain, unable to move any muscle save those in his forearms, always conscious but gradually wasting away.

From a strong, stalwart man of 150 pounds, Handforth weighed at the time of his death only 110 pounds.

Handforth was employed by Atlantic Refining company. On August 19, 1904, he fell from the top of a tank and struck his head on his back, fracturing the fifth and sixth vertebra.

He had said, among other things, that he had saved Caruth from being mobbed in the Goebel campaign.

THE PANAMA CANAL.

The Board of Consulting Engineers of the Isthmian Canal Commission have very wisely, it would appear, decided to sink the canal to a sea-level depth and thus do away with the cumbersome detention of locks and dams. The estimated cost of the work is $230,000,000, and the time required for its completion is placed at fifteen years as a maximum. In speaking of this matter the Washington correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal says:

"The sea level canal, which has been voted on by the members, will have a width at the bottom of 150 feet except in the Culobra cut where the breadth will be 200 feet. The greater width at the Culobra cut is necessary to allow two ships to pass each other safely between the high banks of the canal, which will be formed by the very deep excavation."

But few Governments beside ours have the temerity to undertake and the means to carry out such a gigantic enterprise as this Panama canal. The object to be attained, however, will fully justify any reasonable expenditure on the part of the United States. The uniting of these two great oceans across the Isthmus of Panama will revolutionize the carrying trade of the world, will bring the Orient and the Occident in closer touch by thousands of miles, will open new markets for American products and will shower innumerable blessings and riches upon the people of this country, and especially those of the Gulf States, through which will pass a great portion of the commerce of the world. It will also give to the United States the key of the Pacific ocean and thus a predominant influence in that vast and magnificent body of water. In fine, it will vastly increase the power, the wealth, the glory and the influence of the United States, and with a single voice we all should cry, "On with the Panama Canal."

GLASS FACTORY FOR MARION.

A prominent manufacturer of the window, plate glass and other commodities made of glass sand has made a proposition to the citizens of Marion to locate a factory here on conditions which many of our citizens think can be carried out. The exact terms on which he proposes to locate here were set out in a letter to Mayor J. W. Blue and were received by him last week and it stated that the pay roll would run into the thousands every week and that several hundred inhabitants would be brought to the city at once. The matter is being canvassed and it is more than probable that the bonus asked will be raised by popular subscriptions immediately and that Marion will have the great manufacturing plant here before another year. Millions of tons of glass sand are in easy access to this city and with proper encouragement on the part of our citizens this can be turned into money. R. W. Wilson leads off by offering to furnish the site, 5 acres of land, right on the railroad south of the city. E. J. Hayward, another of the city's most enterprising citizens, offers to head the subscription list with a donation of $2,500 if the factory locates here permanently and demonstrates the statements made in the letter received, which is that they would employ 20 Marion girls and 40 boys and would bring with them 225 expert mechanics whose wages average $20.00 per week. The parties also agree that the pay roll will start in at $2,000 per week and gradually work up to $6,000 per week before the end of two years.

The Federal Court is now in session at Paducah and the following people well known in this vicinity are on the grand jury: H. L. Riley, Emory D. J. Green, Frank Watson, Fords Ferry. ## CALIFORNIA LETTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., Nov. 11, 1905. —ED. PRESS: If you can only spare me a small space in your valuable paper I will endeavor to fill it with a few remarks on California, as some friends have requested.

I and a friend of mine left old Kentucky about the 10th of last April from St. Louis we journeyed to Denver, without any mishap, but on arriving there something was found to be wrong with one ear, and it became necessary to change the passengers to another ear. But this was very satisfactory, as it delayed us about 24 hours, therefore giving us more time to view the greatest city in the Rockies.

From here we went to Colorado Springs and on to Pueblo. We were now traveling on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad, and on leaving Pueblo we lost ourselves in the mountains, where tongue fails to describe the beautiful scenery, but to describe them in a few words I think Royal Gorge, Mount Holy Cross and Hells Gate the most important, although there are many other grand sights too numerous to mention.

The next places of any importance were Salt Lake City and Ogden, and when we got there the new Salt Lake road was just being completed. We had the pleasure of crossing this great lake. Although this lake is not decreasing in size, when arriving at the half-way house we were unable to see land in any direction, so this gives you an idea as to the size of this great salt producing lake.

This trip is full of beautiful sights and incidents too numerous to mention. From here we enter the deserts of Nevada on the Southern Pacific. We reached Reno on Sunday, but had we not looked at the calendar we would have thought it was Saturday, as all the business houses were open for business.

After leaving here we entered into the Sierra Nevada mountains, which lay on the east side of the land of sunshine and flowers, in other words the great State of California.

These mountains have no superior for beauty. They are covered with pine trees which always have for a hood a thick bundle of snow, making them very attractive, especially for one who has rode for miles on the lonely desert.

From here we entered the great Sacramento Valley. This is one of the finest wheat sections in the country, and also has many fine vineyards. This land is as level as a floor as far as the eye can reach. The farms are well stocked with all kinds of machinery and stock, making it one of the most noted valleys in California.

After leaving Sacramento our train seventy miles an hour until we reached San Francisco. We didn't stop in San Francisco but journeyed on to the city of Angels. We took the coast road at Oakland and can imagine the rush of the people to the windows to get their first sight of the great Pacific. The train stopped long enough for us to toss a stone in the surf and then every one seemed satisfied and returned to their seats.

We arrived at Los Angeles after nearly six days travel. The country around San Francisco is indescribable. Its orange and lemon groves are marvelous, and above all its magnificent climate where chills and malaria are unknown.

Having spent about five months around and about Los Angeles, we decided to go to San Francisco. My friend took the train, but as I preferred a ride on the ocean I went by steamer and must say it was a grand trip. I was out 55 hours but never got seasick, but most of the passengers fed the fish abundantly.

It is also very interesting to look at the big guns at the entrance to the Golden Gate.

The Japs took a great fort when they took Port Arthur, but I think they could not even enter the Golden Gate, much less take the city, as it is so well defended.

This is also a delightful climate cool in summer and warm during the winter.

This is the place for one who wishes to go into the liquor business, as the annual liquor license is only $87. You can readily see that they sure take advantage of this, for almost every peanut stand and grocery store afford a bar.

We have not had a drop of rain here since the 8th of May. The rainy season sets in about the 20th of November and lasts until the middle of May. I don't mean to say that it rains every day, but I mean it rarely ever rains sooner or later than this.

There are four of us Kentucky boys here, and we always enjoy the Press; we get it on Saturday.

Well, as I have nothing more of interest to write I will bring this to a close, thanking you for the space, and wishing the Press and its Editor a prosperous future, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

LESLIE SUMMERS.

FALSE EMPEROR

Inciting Rebellion in Russia--Has Fifty Thousand Followers.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 10.—A false Emperor has suddenly made his appearance at Penza, and already has a following numbering fifty thousand. This is the startling report received this afternoon in a dispatch from Simbirsk. Penza is in the heart of the great region extending westward from the Volga, where agrarian uprising on a large scale has been occurring, and if the report turns out to be true that the pretender to the throne has placed himself at the head of the peasantry, the Government will soon face, besides its other troubles, a formidable agrarian rebellion.

It required a year to suppress the famous rebellion led by Pugatcheff, who impersonated the de-throned and murdered Peter III., in the time of Catherine II. That insurrection was started in the same region, on the banks of the Volga.

Accidents to Hunters.

Louisville, Nov. 10.—The hunting season opened with the usual casualties. Two happened near Owensboro.

M. C. Ford was probably fatally shot by his son, who shot at a rabbit. Fifty-seven shot entered his abdomen.

George Thomas was shot in the neck by Forest Miller, who missed the quail. His condition is very serious.

Near Bowling Green, Green S. Buckner was shot in the right side by H. F. Stovall, with whom he was hunting. He is considered dangerously hurt.

George Claypool of Bowling Green received word that his brother Clarence Claypool, formerly of Bowling Green, but now of Paducah, had his hand blown off by the accidental discharge of his gun, while hunting near Dyersburg, Tenn.

Near Hawesville, Andrew Keown, aged 15, was found in a woods, his gun at his side and a wound in his breast.

Charles Reed, aged 13, a negro, accidentally shot himself while hunting near Mt. Sterling.

Doubtless there have been many other serious accidents throughout the state.

One may coax a hen to lay in the winter, but she simply won't lay when she is molting.

It is possible to benefit the state of Minnesota as much by drainage as the state of Nevada by irrigation. Both plans of reclamation are at work and accomplishing wonderful results.

The mounted head of an old fashioned long horned Texan steer will inside of ten years be almost as difficult to obtain as the head of a buffalo bull. The white faces and the doddies are driving the Texas steer out of existence.

A difference in time of the cutting of the first crop of clover will make all the difference in the world as to the yield of the second crop. If the cutting of the first crop is delayed until nearly all the heads are brown the second crop will not be worth much.

We passed a hay field recently where the crop had been put into the stack with a "go devil," and, to state it mildly, there was not less than a quarter of a ton of hay to the acre left scattered all over the field. This might have done when hay was only worth $2 a ton and land $10 per acre, but it looks all out of place on $100 land.

The importance of gathering the seed corn from the field before it is struck by the frost is so great that our readers will excuse us if we refer to it often as the surest method of securing good seed corn and so a good stand of corn next year. Gather the corn the first part of October, hang in a well ventilated place for it to dry out and then store for the winter. Seed corn so saved will hardly need testing next year.

We have all noticed the somewhat ludicrous thing of the old bird trying to take care of and feed its young bird, which was as well feathered and as well matured as the old bird itself. While this is of course permissible with birds, we do not believe in its application to man, and we always feel sorry for the father, and still more for the son, where this practice is put in operation. After a young man is twenty-one years of age the sooner he is turned loose to shift for himself the better for both.

We are asked whether the late cultivation of corn—for instance, the plowing of it after the corn has tasseled out—has a tendency to hinder the maturing of the crop. This depends. If such late cultivation was what it should be—viz, a purely surface cultivation, making a dust mulch for the crop—it would not be, but, on the contrary, would be beneficial in a dry time in preventing the corn from drying. But if such cultivation was in the nature of deep plowing, which involved the cutting of more or less of the base roots of the corn, it would have the tendency to delay the maturing of the crop and would in no way be beneficial to it.

Is it best to cut the second crop of clover for hay, let it ripen and cut it later for seed, pasture it off or plow it under? That depends. Cut as hay it is not of great value, though it makes a very appetizing ration for the milk cows in winter. Whether it will pay to cut it for seed depends upon how well the crop is fertilized. Some years the fertilization is very imperfect and the crop is not worth fussing with for the seed. Whether it will pay or not may be determined by taking a few heads just as they begin to turn brown and dissect them, which will show easily what sort of a seed crop may be looked for. As between feeding off in the fall and plowing under we should much prefer the latter, as this process returns to the soil a valuable fertilizer. If plowed it should be done just as about half the heads are turned brown.

Under the new system of caring for the earth roads by dragging them after every heavy rain the best results will be secured by the township trustees letting the work out by contract in the spring at so much per mile, the contract to include the treatment of all the roads in the township. While much good work in this line will be secured by the gratuitous work of public spirited farmers, it will still not be uniform, and, further, when a man has paid his road tax he should not be expected to donate further work for road improvement as a regular thing. The cost to let such contracts and cover all the roads in a township is really a very small item, there being on an average about seventy-six miles of highway in each civil township, and experience has shown that such roads may be cared for in this manner and kept in almost perfect condition during the period when there is no frost in the ground for a sum not to exceed $3 per mile. The sum received from poll taxes in each township will just about cover this item, leaving all the rest of the road tax to be used for other purposes.

A western farmer made a record of five quail, three rabbits and six snakes which he killed up in one day's mowing in his clover field.

The diameter of a stalk of corn determines the size of the ear which it will produce rather than its height. More nibbles of ears are common on stalks fourteen feet high in the southern states.

A vine, such as a grapevine, a creeper or wistaria, may be allowed to grow up and around the trunk of a shade tree on the lawn, often with quite a pretty effect, but it must never be allowed to reach the branches of the tree, for if it once gets into the top of the tree it is sure death to it.

The skunk is a pest of our present agricultural development. There are a hundred of these beasts now where there were five when the country was first settled. We know of a case where over 100 of them were killed on a single farm in the prairie section of the west last season. They are one of the greatest pests which the poultry raiser has to contend with and work a fearful destruction among all our game and ground birds by destroying their nests.

There will be this year, as every year, hundreds of thousands of acres of small grain allowed to stand in the shock in the fields to blacken, sprout and bleach waiting for the thrashing machine to come to thrash from the shock. If a man is any number lower than six on a thrashing crew he is almost sure to have trouble in store for him. The losses from this source are enormous. The plan works all right in the rainless regions of the far west, but is wasteful in the largest degree in the central states.

Buried in shade—that's what ails so many homes, and all brought about through the forgetfulness of the man who planted the trees that trees will grow and grow fast, and but few have the courage to take the ax and cut down the trees which they have planted. Thus the sun is shut out from access to the house, the shingles become covered with a green moss and everything invites ill health. There is a close relation between wrongly planted trees, patent medicines, doctors and undertakers. Man never does well in the shade until he is dead.

Considering the great value of the silo to all stock and dairy men it is remarkable how slow men who would be greatly benefited by it are to take it up. The silo is just as much a natural ally of the corn crop as cows are of the blue grass pasture. The silo can be built for what men paid for a reaper twenty-five years ago. It means where used succulent and nutritious food all winter long for all the stock; it means increased milk receipts and consequent profits; it means an economic use of what would otherwise be a lot of wasted forage and a good many loads of hay for sale which without it would be consumed on the farm.

The American people are studying more closely than ever before the economic value of a piece of land as related to furnishing a part of the living for the family. They realize that what looks like a good salary for the municipal resident is largely used up in the purchase of everyday necessities—fruits, vegetables, poultry and poultry products, milk, butter, cream, etc.—all of which and some to spare may be obtained from a very small tract of land. The suburban roads are doing much to solve this problem, permitting a city resident to keep up his work in the town while he may at the same time have all the advantages of a country home. The many good things which may be associated with even one acre of land are only just becoming to be understood.

A young man, a friend of ours, who has dutifully and faithfully worked for his father until he has become of age, writes us as follows: "I am twenty-one years of age. I have worked on the farm with my father and have a little property to the value of about $1,000. I have had a limited education, only such as I could pick up at the district school and from such books and newspapers as we had in the home. Two propositions appear open to me. One is to get married and settle down on the farm. The other is to take what money I have and spend it to acquire a larger education, with the hope of filling a larger sphere in life. Which is the better for me to do? Knowing our friend as we do and believing him to be a proper subject, we unhesitatingly advise him to devote the next four years of his life to acquiring a good modern education. It is time enough to get married when one is twenty-five. Inasmuch as he is fond of farming and has had an excellent practical training at home in this line, we would suggest that he take a full agricultural course at one of our best state agricultural colleges. At the end of that time, even if his money be gone and he still wishes to go on the farm, he would be so much better equipped to carry on his business intelligently and successfully that he would consider the money well spent. It is today with the young man as with one who climbs a mountain side. As one climbs up step by step, ever enlarging and widening views are seen, and the more one sees the more one wants to see, until ambition leads one to be unsatisfied until the top of the mountain is reached. A little education begets a desire for more, and a young man once started along this line is absolutely assured of securing a larger and more desirable position in life. In a word, we would say to the young man, Put off the wedding, spend your money for an education, work hard and trust the Lord for the future.

FREDONIA AND KELSEY.

On Thursday evening, Nov. 16th, at the Kelsey hotel, Miss Lana Conyer and Mr. Clifton King were united in marriage by Rev. M. E. Miller. It was a quiet home wedding; only a few friends of the popular young couple were present. The bride received a large number of useful and beautiful presents. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Q. M. Conyer, and is a most charming young lady, while the groom is a carpenter and contractor, and has a nice home at Memphis, where they will reside. They left Friday on the 11-45 train for Adairsville to visit the father of the groom, Mr. Wm. King, who is one of the best citizens of that place. May their lines in life always fall in pleasant places is the wish of their many friends here.

NEW SALEM.

We never saw so many people with colds; they are epidemic in this section.

Call and see Denman & Love's hats; they are now going at your own price.

Please to make the following correction, which occurred in last week's issue of the Press, to-wit: Mrs. J. N. Harpending died on the 7th November instead of the 17th Oct. Second: Services at New Salem 3d Saturday instead of 4th Saturday.

Esq. T. A. Harpending was on Tennessee river on business recently.

Our mining interest seems to be on the boom. The Cullen, Riley, and Nancy Hanks are in full blast, their whistles echo over the hills of Livingston and Crittenden counties morning, noon and night, and each one is working a full force.

Very little plowing is being done here.

Berry Davis and family of Livingston county, spent Sunday as the guest of relatives in this section.

Rev King filled his regular appointment at New Salem, 3rd Sunday.

The worst place on the public road leading from Salem to Marion is at the branch on the Carter farm, we believe if the Hon. Judge Towery would make a trip to and examine this crossing he would not hesitate to put a bridge over it for is almost impassable. Judge, come and see it.

Judge Mahan has started a sheep ranch; if his flocks increase like a certain county official's who lives in an adjoining county, and who used to live in this section, he will have to buy more land.

Most every farmer has his lands posted. There is so much reckless shooting that the land owners have been compelled to look to their own interest or perhaps have some valuable stock killed, or maybe some of their family.

John L. Harpending spent last week in Ills.
